Wednesday 22 January 2020: HOME T2 - all timings are approximate
BSL interpreted by Craig Brown, Karl Llorca and Rachel Moffat

9.30am – 10.00am Arrivals + Registration

Part One

Mandla Rae: As British As A Watermelon

10.00am – 10.15am Performance

Mandla Rae scrambles to put together their life and unsaid words. In As British As A Watermelon, Mandla gives a glimpse into the life of a previously illegal human, picks apart trauma and its relationship to gender and the effects of shame. Mandla uses poetry and spoken word to explore language, truth and silence.

New work-in-development, supported by a GM LGBT CAN New Performance Bursary.

Part Two

Roma Havers: LOB

1.00pm – 1.15pm

Performance

It's the year 2000 and my grandmother, dreaming of Wimbledon glory, is devastated by my lack of prowess.

Now, with her trusty swingball set, Roma Havers once again attempts to serve a LOB. This dance and poetry show re-imagines what it means for queer bodies to move in sporting spaces.

New work-in-development, supported by a GM LGBT CAN New Performance Bursary.

LGBTQ+ Voices

1.15pm – 1.30pm

Travis Alabanza: Trans Talkz
Presentation

Travis Alabanza talks about the optics of viewing trans performance, what we are used to, and what we need to push to in order to gain nuanced and honest representation. Reflecting on both Burgerz, their archival project trans talks, and their new 2020 project with trans young people in collaboration with the Roundhouse.

1.30pm – 1.40pm

Nathaniel Hall: Do You Remember The First Time?
Presentation

Nathaniel's lived with HIV since contracting the virus from his first sexual encounter aged just 16. Find out about his First Time, theatre that aims to radically break down the stigma associated with the disease through talks, participatory projects, on-site rapid HIV testing, education, outreach and fundraising parties.

1.40pm – 1.50pm

Suriya Aisha:
What Does True Support Look Like For Our QTIPOC Community?

Suriya Aisha unpacks what true allyship looks like in an age of social media and buzzwords. Learn the top priorities for supporting LGBTQ+ POC folks, from young people to our elders.

1.50pm – 2.00pm

Cheddar Gorgeous
We Liked Drag Before It Was Cool

A brief celebration of what the 'mainstream drag explosion' has done for drag artists, followed by an extensive exploration of the potential misunderstanding, co-option and control of our queerness it may risk.

2.00pm - 2.10pm

Jackie Hagan:
Not Just Tea Or Coffee

A decade ago, Jackie performed a piece regularly about her bisexuality called Tea or Coffee, it was studied at universities and cited in journals and even said at people's weddings. However, in the light of the 2010s it is clearly detrimentally binary. Jackie responds to her old piece, delving into the view that the prefix bi = 2 means just two genders.

2.10pm – 2.25pm

Q+A
Chair: Barry Priest
Speakers: Cheddar Gorgeous, Jackie Hagan, Nathaniel Hall, Suriya Aisha, Travis Alabanza

Golden Years?

2.25pm – 3.25pm

Panel Discussion

Chair: Rachel Morris

Speakers: Andrew Westle, Cynthia Chika Franklin, Harvey Kennedy, Jamie Fletcher, Julie McCarthy

'Not in front of the children', Section 28, 'No Outsiders'... when is it appropriate to talk about LGBTQ+ relationships? And to who? And once we start, do we have to stop when we're older? We look at the ageing process and ask how arts + culture can help support equality, diversity and understanding, no matter what your age, faith, or community...
